You were previously advised that Ambassador Lewis Hoffacker, Chairman of the Working Group of captioned Committee had submitted a draft on Guidelines for Dealing with Terrorism with International Connections or Implications. Our suggestions for corrections in the first draft were furnished to Ambassador Hoffacker.

Attached is the second draft that has now been prepared by Ambassador Hoffacker. A review of the information contained in the draft which is attached appears to be satisfactory with the exception that on page 15, under Item 7 we should suggest that in line 4 after government official insert "regarding policy matters."

This draft was prepared to afford overall guidelines for dealing with any demands in an international terrorist matter and as noted on page 14, nothing contained in the draft is meant to conflict with or infringe upon the responsibilities of the FBI in suggested situation.

ACTION:

(1) If you agree, we will suggest the noted change to Ambassador Hoffacker.

(2) If approved, Ambassador Hoffacker will be advised that we are in agreement with the guidelines.

This memorandum provides a summary of the background of our Contingency Plan relative to our responsibilities under the Act for the Protection of Foreign Officials and Official Guests of the United States (PFO). Changes updating these plans are attached.

Following the murders of the Jewish athletes at the Olympic Games in Munich in September, 1972, President Nixon established the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism chaired by the Secretary of State. This Committee was composed of Cabinet-level officials and included the Acting Director of the FBI. The Committee was supported by a working group to which Mr. Edward S. Miller was designated to represent the FBI.

The mission of the Cabinet Committee is to consider the most effective means by which to prevent terrorism here and abroad and to take the lead in establishing procedures to insure our Government can take appropriate action in response to acts of terrorism swiftly and effectively. At one of its first meetings, the working group designated the FBI to assume primary responsibility in the event of any terrorist attacks in the U. S., which fall under Federal jurisdiction. All other Federal departments and agencies were directed to assist the FBI in every appropriate way.

At the time the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism was established, Federal jurisdiction was limited with respect to terrorist acts. However, Congress was considering PFO to provide an umbrella of Federal protection over a large number of foreign officials and official guests who were not previously entitled to Federal protection. This Act was passed and was signed by the President on 10/24/72. After lengthy negotiation with the Department of Justice, the Department assigned exclusive Federal investigative jurisdiction for this Act to the FBI. We did not feel it was desirable to share jurisdiction of this statute with Treasury.

Enclosed for inclusion in this Contingency Plan are:

1. Revised pages for the entire plan although not the appendixes thereto; and
2. Revised page 2 of the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism Roster of Emergency Watch Group which could also be described as the last page of Appendix D.

RESPONSE TO TERRORISM BY EXTORTION

Reference is made to memorandum of Mr. James R. Robinson, Attorney, General Crimes Section, Criminal Division, to Ambassador Lewis Hoffacker, Chairman, Working Group, Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism, dated March 19, 1974.

During the meeting of the Working Group of the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism, on March 20, 1974, Mr. Robinson of the Department distributed a copy of the referenced memorandum relating to "Response to Terrorism by Extortion" and requested comments of the members of the Working Group concerning the points raised therein.

In view of the fact that the FBI has been assigned primary investigative responsibility under the Act for the Protection of Foreign Officials and Official Guests of the United States, the following comments are being set forth so as to conform to our understanding of our operational response to terrorist incidents covered by the statute. It will be recognized that in cases not involving diplomatic establishments this Bureau has jurisdiction under other statutes which could be invoked regarding terrorist acts such as crime on the high seas, crime aboard aircraft and kidnaping.

With the above in mind it has been our understanding that in the case of a terrorist takeover of a foreign embassy once a decision is made that the Federal presence should be exercised, the FBI will have sole jurisdiction to investigate the matter. We will proceed to and secure the area involved with the cooperation of local police. At such time following negotiations that it is determined that further negotiations would not be of benefit and that this becomes a "police matter," this fact will be relayed from the Department of State to the Attorney General and then to us at which time we will take the necessary action deemed appropriate to neutralize or terminate this takeover including entering the diplomatic premises if necessary.

We recognize that before a determination can be made that the incident has proceeded to the point that it has become a "police matter," serious negotiations will be carried on within the Executive Branch. In this regard it is understood that the Department of State will communicate or discuss the matter with the Attorney General, the President and any others they so desire. However, once negotiations are terminated and a decision is made that it has become a "police matter" and this is relayed to us through the Attorney General, complete control will be in the hands of the FBI and we will take whatever operational steps we feel necessary.

Assistant Attorney General
Criminal Division

Mention is made in the captioned memorandum of the present kidnaping of Patricia Hearst. The matter of this kidnaping is similar to all other kidnapings and this as well as all domestic terrorist activities are those handled by investigations of the FBI and other law enforcement officers in accordance with well-established procedures and are not the type of incidents referred to the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism Working Group. These incidents characteristically do not involve the conduct of the foreign relations of the United States. We will continue to handle our investigations of these type cases as we have in the past.

The above is set forth to reflect our understanding of this matter and your concurrence or advice is solicited.

Assistant Attorney General
Criminal Division

NOTE:

Primary jurisdiction under the Act for the Protection of Foreign Officials and Official Guests of the United States has been assigned to the FBI by the Department of Justice. During a meeting of the Working Group of the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism on March 20, 1974, a memorandum was tabled captioned, "Response to Terrorism by Extortion." This memorandum stated it was not intended to take away operational responsibilities from the FBI but did state and recommend the creation of a sub-group to consider "whether and to what extent the United States should move to terminate an ongoing terrorist operation." Memorandum suggested that the government is not as well prepared as it might be to handle situations involving a high profile response by the U.S. to terrorist activities or demands. Memorandum also stated, "We see first the need for a procedure to insure the decision on such a response reflects the collective insights and judgments of all agencies represented on the Cabinet Committee."

Field exercises and contingency plans have been formulated on the understanding that we would take guidance from the Department of State through the Attorney General up to the time when the decision is made that the matter becomes a "police matter" at which time we would take over full responsibility and operational interest and all decisions and actions to affect the use of hostages, the securing of any buildings and the neutralization of terrorist attackers.

Memorandum also makes reference to the Patricia Hearst kidnaping as an example wherein a demand could be made for a plane for departure of the abductors. Memorandum infers that a decision of this type on whether to furnish a plane should be passed upon by a sub-group of the Working Group. In our view, the Hearst kidnaping does not fall within the Cabinet Committee's responsibilities.

Subject: GUIDELINES FOR DEALING WITH TERRORISM WITH INTERNATIONAL CONNECTIONS OR IMPLICATIONS

Reference is made to memorandum dated April 1, 1974, bearing above caption.

Enclosed is a copy of my memorandum to the Assistant Attorney General, Criminal Division, dated March 23, 1974, captioned "Response to Terrorism by Extortion," which sets forth the views of the FBI concerning its responsibilities in connection with investigations of terrorist matters falling within the Act for the Protection of Foreign Officials and Official Guests of the U. S. Differentiation is made in this memorandum also of our responsibilities in handling matters pertaining to domestic incidents of violence.

In the enclosed memorandum we made reference to the kidnaping of Patricia Hearst which was mentioned in a prior memorandum to which we were responding. We noted that the matter of the Hearst kidnaping is similar to all other kidnapings and is handled by the FBI in accordance with well established procedures and is not the type of incident referred to the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism, ~~where these~~ incidents characteristically do not involve the conduct of the foreign relations of the United States.

In connection with your paper regarding the Guidelines for Dealing with Terrorism with International Connections or Implications, I would like to make the following observations:

Page 1, paragraph 2 - This paragraph refers to the fact that the scope of the coverage includes kidnapping, extortion, hijacking, and other forms of terrorism by certain individuals or groups against individuals for whom the United States has clear protective responsibility. These individuals are described as U. S. citizens at home and abroad and foreigners in this country. It is believed that the inclusion of U. S. citizens at home and abroad and foreigners in this country is far too broad as it is not believed that the Working Group of the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism would be called upon to act in cases of attack against this wide range of individuals. It would appear the phrase should read U. S. citizens abroad and foreign officials in the United States.

Page 1, paragraph 3 - This paragraph states that the U. S. Government is committed to legal remedies in dealing with terrorists. An additional statement is made that terrorism is not to be countered by extra-legal means. The inclusion of the last statement appears to be unnecessary in view of the previous sentence which is all inclusive.

Page 1, paragraph 4 - This paragraph also refers to extra-legal acts by governments countering terrorism and it appears gratuitous in view of the previous statement that the U. S. Government policy is even-handed and the U. S. Government must continue to oppose terrorism "wherever we see it."

Pages 6 and 7, paragraph 2 through 4 and the first paragraph of page 7 - These paragraphs set forth guidelines for dealing with terrorism in the Post-Attack phase. In these paragraphs there is set forth certain action to be taken by various agencies of the Government. It would appear beneficial if inside each paragraph the identity of the government body responsible to take the action be set forth.

Page 7, paragraph A - This paragraph pertains to acts to be taken during the Attack phases of an incident and refers to the Hearst case. As previously noted in our letter of March 22, 1971, cases such as the Hearst case would not be referred to the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism. Also, there is reference in this paragraph to the possible

The Honorable
The Secretary of State

abduction of U. S. officials or members of their families in the United States. It appears that these acts against U. S. officials would fall within the jurisdiction of the FBI and U. S. Secret Service under present existing criminal statutes and would not be referred to the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism.

Page 8, paragraph 1 - This paragraph relates to the possible release of U. S. prisoners and notes that the terrorist should understand that release of prisoners is one of those non-negotiables which terrorists should not request. The observation is made that like official ransom, it (implied release of U. S. prisoners) would get out of hand and "war prisons would gradually empty." It appears that the quoted phrase is an unwarranted conclusion and this, should not be included.

Page 8, paragraph 3 - This paragraph also refers to the recent kidnapping and for reasons stated before, the kidnapping is not the type of case which would be referred to the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism.

Pages 12 and 13 - Mention is made concerning the operational setup which may establish a task force to deal with a specific incident within the United States. It is stated that such an organization would dovetail with the command post established by the FBI "or other agencies responsible for coping operationally with the incident." The latter phrase appears to be unnecessary as the command post will be established by the FBI which has operational responsibility.

It will be noted that the suggestions set forth above only provide for changes in the task of the guidelines which directly affect the FBI's responsibilities in coping with a terrorist attack whereas the Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism Working Group will be active. The FBI recognizes that other agencies will have concerns affecting their responsibilities and interests.

NOTE:

Primary jurisdiction under the Act for Protection of Foreign Officials and Official Guests of the U. S., has been assigned to the FBI by the Department of Justice. Pursuant to our responsibilities under the Act field exercises and contingency plans have been formulated on the understanding that we will take guidance from the Department of State through the Attorney General in regards to responding to terrorist acts involving foreign establishments or officials in the U. S. The Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism Working Group has been established, chaired by Ambassador Hoffacker. We are represented on this Working Group and recently Ambassador Hoffacker has prepared some proposed "Guidelines for Dealing with Terrorism with International Connections or Implications." The memorandum of transmittal from Ambassador Hoffacker dated 4/1/74 pointed out that government policy and procedures for coping with terrorist attacks should be reviewed in order that the U. S. foreign and domestic policies for dealing with such matters are generally consistent. It also suggested that members of the Working Group study the proposed guidelines and to discuss differences with the Ambassador's staff. We are submitting our comments concerning the proposed guidelines for the guidance of the Ambassador.

You were previously advised that Ambassador Lewis Hoffacker, Chairman, Working Group, Cabinet Committee to Combat Terrorism is scheduled to appear before the House Internal Security Committee in connection with hearings on terrorism. One of the primary questions to be posed to the Ambassador concerned the establishment of special groups to engage in negotiations with terrorist should the occasion arise.

Attached is a memorandum from Ambassador Hoffacker along with his opening statement to be presented to the Committee on May 7, 1974. He opposes the establishment of these negotiating teams and states that the present system is satisfactory. He referred to the FBI in his statement in a favorable manner and suggested that the Committee might desire to have heads of other agencies, including the FBI, testify before this Committee.
